

Your Primary Communication DNA Style is Stability

However, it is supported by an important secondary communication style being Lifestyle which is reflected below.

A person with a need for stability is interested in safety and living in a calm environment.

Unique Communication Keys for Steffan Pedersen:

Your communication strength:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Conveying empathy and warmth when communicating • Being open, engaging and communicating with enthusiasm
You like to be communicated with on the following terms:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Keep it relaxed • Speak softly • Openly express views
You learn by:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sensory and feeling • Intuition and pictures
Your information requirement:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Provide instructions • Use graphics
Conversation starter:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How do you spend time with your family and community? • Who have you connected with lately?

Building Relationships

There are 4 Communication DNA Styles: Goal-Setting, Lifestyle, Stability and Information. Adaptive individuals are naturally flexible in relation to the 4 primary styles.

To learn more about each communication style and how to interact with them, visit <http://www.communicationdna.com>.

Sharing builds trust and relationships – send your Report to those you interact with.